Seven Yanks Hurt In Attack Over Neutral Waters

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The United States announced today that a slow moving, lightly armed Navy patrol plane was attacked Wednesday by two Russian MIG jet fighters over international waters between Alaska and Siberia.

One engine set afire by the attack, the plane crashed-landed and burned on remote St. Lawrence Island, American territory, in the Bering Sea. Seven of the 11 crew members were injured.

The incident, the 13th attack on American planes outside war zones since 1950, threw a shadow over forthcoming Big Four peace talks and stirred an angry protest in Congress.

Dulles Quizzes Molotov

In San Francisco, Secretary of State Dulles saw Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at the direction of President Eisenhower and asked for an explanation of the shooting.

The incident occurred Wednesday, the same day Molotov outlined his peace proposals in the U.N. meeting at San Francisco.

It was reported that Molotov, who has been trying doggedly to show a peaceful front during the sessions, told Dulles he knew nothing of the incident but would investigate. Both Dulles and Molotov are leaving tomorrow and any Russian response would be made to the State Department.

White House press secretary James Hagerty first announced the "inexplicable and unwarranted" attack while touring with President Eisenhower in Whitefield, N. H.

Didn't Return Fire

Defense officials in Washington then filled in details, saying the American plane was armed only with one .50 caliber machine gun and did not return the single round of fire from the MIGs. Military spokesmen said the plane was on a patrol out of Kodiak, Alaska, a flight that has been routine for the past year, and "reports indicate that there is no explanation for this unprovoked attack."

At Eisenhower's direction, Secretary of State Dulles promptly took up the issue with Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at San Francisco, where they are attending the 10th anniversary ceremonies of the United Nations.

Hagerty reported Molotov said he was unaware of the incident but would investigate at once and communicate with Dulles again.

St. Lawrence Island, where the twin-engine plane crashed-landed, is less than 100 miles from Siberia and 200 miles southwest of Nome, Alaska. The wounded crewmen were flown to Elmendorf (Alaska) Air Force Base hospital.

Congress Bitter

In Congress, the incident touched off bitter reaction and brought expressions of concern about its effects on the Big Four summit conference in Geneva next month.

"This is an incredible way to start a peace conference," said Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.).

"This act unmasks the insincerity of the Russian peace offensive," said Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.), a member of the Armed Services Committee.

Sen. Holland (D-Fla.) said the Russian attack was a matter of great concern especially because American patrol planes in that area are charged with protecting against a surprise attack on American continental installations.

"This is mighty close to home," Holland added. "This is a far more serious incident than the attacks on American planes in the area north of Japan and in other areas."

Cowardly Attack

Sen. Monroney (D-Okla.) called it "a cowardly attack by trigger-happy Russians."

Sen. Morse (D-Ore.) said the United Nations should step into the situation and "call the Russians to an accounting."

Sen. Purtell (R-Conn.) said the incident portends an "almost unbelievable" lack of interest by Russia in really lessening world tensions.

The Navy said the plane, a P2V-7, had a speed of 312 miles per hour, scarcely half that of a jet fighter. Two of the crew members were said to have received fractures and five were burned.

Four escaped injury.

The Navy had reported the crash yesterday without mentioning the Russian attack.

Route Flight

Hagerty, in announcing the attack, used the phrase "crash-landing." Asked if that meant the plane was shot down, he replied, "I did not say that."

His terse announcement did not mince words about the origin of the attack. He said the Navy Neptune patrol plane, while on a routine flight over international waters in the Bering Strait area, "was fired upon by Soviet planes."

He added that the commander of the Navy plane (Lt. R. H. Fischer, 30, Del Ray Oaks, Calif.), "was forced to make a crash landing on St. Lawrence Island in American territory."

Occurred In Morning

Hagerty said word of the shooting first reached President Eisenhower yesterday when he was at Chittenden, Vt. Eisenhower conferred by telephone today with

Ike Calls Again For Strong Nation

WHITEFIELD, N. H., June 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower today sounded a new call for a strong America in the quest for enduring peace—and made no new allusions to his 1956 political plans.

The President made two New Hampshire speeches this morning—one at Lincoln and the other at Franconia Notch—but in neither did he follow up in any way his "teaser" suggestion of yesterday that he might seek a second term.

An aide who asked not to be named reported that Eisenhower laughed uproariously in reading newspaper accounts of the commotion he caused as a result of the "teaser" remarks in an informal talk at Concord, N. H. But he did nothing publicly to clarify the situation.

Eisenhower arrived at this northern New Hampshire community early this afternoon after motoring from Laconia, where he spent the night.

The President took part at Franconia Notch in ceremonies marking the 150th anniversary of the discovery of "The Old Man of the Mountains"—a great stone face etched by nature on a mountain peak.

Speaking informally there against the mountain backdrop of breathtaking beauty, Eisenhower mused about the "thoughts" of the "old man" towering above.

The President told an audience of about 2,500 persons he is certain the "thoughts" include a conviction that mankind yet will achieve "that objective of peace on earth, good will to men." Then Eisenhower added:

"If we are sufficiently dedicated to the cause of peace, we will be strong, and then we will be able to cooperate with others, because only strength can cooperate—weakness cannot cooperate, it can only beg."

"We will be able to cooperate and help lead the world toward that promised goal. So I would say that our best birthday gift to the Old Man of the Mountain is that we make up our minds, each in his own fashion, to do his part in bringing about that hope for mankind that the Old Man of the Mountain must have."

'Unpalatable' Soda Pop Mix Sold To Navy

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—A government investigator told House members today three former Navy men swung a deal for a soda pop mix which he described as "unpalatable."

He described this as "excessive expenditures."

The testimony came at a hearing of a House Government Operations subcommittee hunting for evidence of waste in military buying.

Navy witnesses conceded the deal had been "irregular" but blamed the men involved and not the system.

James Eckhart, subcommittee counsel, said, however, "the case points up that there are Navy procedures which might possibly stand some improvement."

Chairman Hollifield (D-Calif.) said the deal "reflects a lack of control over procurement generally" by the Navy.

Herbert Hoover Jr., undersecretary of state, who was in Washington, in the room with Hoover were Secretary of Defense Wilson, Adm. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert Anderson.

The Navy said another plane sighted the four uninjured crew members near the scene of the wreckage Wednesday night. The attack took place about 10 o'clock in the morning.

In the Far North's virtual round-the-clock daylight, the crew members were rescued and flown to the hospital.

Charles Shields, father of Airman Charles W. Shields, 21, of Clawson, Mich., one of the crew members, said he had talked with the Elmendorf hospital and learned that his son had burned hands.

U. N. Charter Favored Over Molotov Plan

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today rejected in strong words Russia's seven-point peace program. He said instead the cold war can be ended by nations observing the U. N. charter, refraining from force and halting subversion against other countries.

Dulles' policy declaration to the U. N. 10th anniversary celebration was the American answer to the challenge of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, who had said the next step is up to the United States and the West.

The secretary's 28-minute speech had been endorsed in advance by President Eisenhower. The President opened this conference last Monday with a renewed pledge to follow the spirit of the charter. Heavy applause burst out as Dulles ended. Even Molotov and his delegation politely clapped their hands.

"One Simple Method"

Summing up the American reaction to Molotov's program, Dulles said:

"There is one extremely simple method of bringing an end to what is called the 'cold war'—observe the charter of the United Nations; refrain from the use of force or the threat of force in international relations and from the support and direction of subversion against the institutions of other countries."

Molotov's seven points included agreements to withdraw troops from Germany, stop "war propaganda," settle the Far Eastern problems and dismantle military bases on foreign territories.

Dulles said seven points are not needed; it is enough to adhere to the charter.

Truman Speaks

Former President Harry S. Truman, appearing on the personal invitation of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, reaffirmed his support of the U. N. and appealed for disarmament so effective that no nation would have sufficient arms to wage a successful war.

Truman opened the 1945 founding conference by telephone from Washington soon after becoming President. He came here for the closing ceremonies on June 26, 1945. This conference will adjourn Sunday afternoon after, it is expected, accepting a San Francisco declaration on peace.

The former president, a veteran of the Potsdam Conference of 1945, welcomed the coming meetings between President Eisenhower and the other big power chieftains. He appeared also to approve the cautious course being taken by President Eisenhower.

Agreements Are Gains

"It may not be possible to make sudden or vast strides in these conferences," he said, "but agreement even in some things will be a gain. Agreement even in little things may be a foundation on which greater things can be built." (Please turn to Page Five)

Adenauer Pleads For Arming Of Troops By July

BONN, Germany, June 24 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today urged to enable him to put the first West German soldiers in uniform before the Geneva summit conference.

He declared this was essential to preserve the unity of the West against Russian pressure.

Adenauer was whipping up support for the unpopular temporary bill he has introduced in order to call up the first 6,000 volunteers this summer.

Because of its vagueness, the bill, nicknamed the "Blitz Law," has stirred up a lot of opposition in both houses of Parliament.

Adenauer today told a meeting of Free Democrat deputies the bill must be put into effect before the Big Four conference begins July 18.

He said West Germany must show it is determined to carry out its military obligations to the North Atlantic Alliance as fast as possible.

He declared any "wavering or hesitation" in West Germany would encourage the Russians to make renewed attempts to divide the West.

Connie Beers Crowned Miss Pocono Mountains

AN ATTRACTIVE East Stroudsburg girl—Connie Beers—whose hazel eyes glistened with sudden emotion heard herself named "Miss Pocono Mountains" last night at a pageant in Skyline Inn, Mount Pocono.

At 19, Miss Beers is a serious student of music with an ambitious desire to become an opera star. She is now a student at Yale University's School of Music.

Connie Beers
... Miss Pocono

Last night her soprano voice helped her win her second major beauty-talent contest in the same number of years. For the formal judging in the talent division, Miss Beers appeared in Japanese costume.

Appropriately—for the occasion—she had chosen to sing Cio-Cio-San's hauntingly beautiful aria, "Un el BDI" ("One Fine Day") from Puccini's "Madam Butterfly."

Like all the rest of Puccini's opera, "Un Bel Di" is music touched by the element of human sorrow and happiness. For this feeling, the aria was doubly appropriate.

Remembers Father

Miss Beers—who is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Beers and the late James Beers—was completely "overcome" by the honor given her last night. Everything—the pageant, the other talent, the setting—had been wonderful, she said, a few minutes after she was crowned "Miss Pocono Mountains".

"But there was one thing about tonight—about winning—that made me more happy than anything else in the world," she said.

"My father had always wanted me to become a singer—because he knew this was what I wanted to do. Tonight, through each second of the program, I knew sincerely my father was there, watching over me and listening to me sing. Nothing could have made me happier than that."

Miss Beers' father, an accountant, died in 1953 a few weeks after she was graduated from East Stroudsburg High School.

Crowned By Miss Pennsylvania

"I had no idea I'd win when I entered the contest. I wanted to compete because I knew it would be a wonderful experience and that I'd enjoy meeting the other girls—some of whom I had never met—and hearing them perform," Miss Beers said.

"There was so much talent here," she said. "And this is a lovely, beautiful place."

When the decision of the judges was announced, Miss Beers gave an audible gasp, observers said. Moments later she was crowned by Barbara Sue Nager, the currently-reigning "Miss Pennsylvania" who arrived here yesterday especially for the pageant.

Judges for the contest were George Graff, chairman; Tom Waring, Rowena Stevens, Jane Pickens and Joseph Whalen. Harvey Blair was an honorary judge.

In addition to Miss Beers, the judges selected two runners-up: Miss Elizabeth Radel, second and Miss Ruth Ebling, third. Other contestants were Miss Elizabeth Knierim, Miss Gail Young and Miss Martha Yost.

Presented Award

Former State Sen. M. F. Crowe presented an award to Miss Beers as "Miss Pocono Mountains" in behalf of the Pocono Mountains Magazine, whose publisher, Mrs. Robert Miller, was sponsor of the contest.

Miss Beers was the winner of a beauty-talent contest held in the Poconos last year when she was named "Junior Jinx" for this area. She received a trip to New York where she appeared on the Tex and Jinx television show as one of the finalists.

This year she is eligible to compete for the title, "Miss Pennsylvania" when State finals are held at West Chester July 8 and 9.

Part of the qualification for winning such contests is the appearance of the contestant in a bathing suit. Last night the swim-suit portion of the contest was held "in private" with only judges and the contestants in attendance.

Miss Beers' measurements are as follows: chest—35 inches; waist—25 inches; hips—35 inches; height—five feet, nine inches.

Republican County Leaders Declare It Would Be Folly To Enact Any Tax Increase

HARRISBURG, June 24 (AP)—Forty-two Republican County leaders said today it would be madness for the Republican party to go along with the Democratic plan to enact the classified income tax or impose or increase any other levy.

"The voters last November were not choosing between a sales tax or a wage tax or an income tax," said a round-robin letter they addressed to Miles Horst, Republican state chairman. "They overwhelmed us with their votes for no tax."

The letter virtually repeated the federal action by 23 Republican county leaders earlier in the month.

Would Deserve Beating

"It would be madness for the Republican party to defy the will of the people and impose new taxes, or increase old taxes, during the present session," the letter said. "The people in our counties are looking to the Republican Senate to give them exactly what they voted for last November."

The letter said if the Republican-controlled senate goes along with any Democratic tax program "we will deserve the beating we will surely get in November."

"If our courthouses and city halls are lost this year, the state will be lost for president next year," the letter continued.

Sen. Joseph M. Barr, Democratic state chairman, when asked to comment on the letter, declared: "Let those signers get together and sign a check to the Commonwealth to make up for the deficit we inherited from the Republicans."

Counties represented by either chairman or vice chairman in signing the letter included: Blair, Bradford, Cameron, Carbon, Centre, Clearfield, Clinton, Columbia, Crawford.

Monro Included

Elk, Fayette, Fulton, Huntingdon, Indiana, Lackawanna, Lycoming, Mercer, Monroe, Montour, Northampton, Northumberland, Pike, Potter, Schuylkill, Snyder, Somerset, Tioga, Union, Warren, Washington, Wayne, Westmoreland.

In another development, Horst issued a statement assailing Gov. Leader for a plan to use political patronage in seeking enactment of the classified income levy.

"The whole sordid scheme has all the earmarks of a widespread political conspiracy to get while the getting is good and it would never be necessary if the governor would only admit that his unjust and unconstitutional wage and income tax can never be passed because the people who must pay it have weighed it and found it wanting," Horst said.

Safety Rules Slow Vaccine Production

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—Revised safety standards evidently are bringing delays in release of Salk polio vaccine which were not anticipated a month ago. This has further clouded the picture as to when vaccine may become available for general use among children.

A survey of all six manufacturers today indicated large amounts may not be available until mid-July, and it may be August or later before the flow of vaccine hits full scale.

A spokesman for the National Institutes of Health said apparently it will be at least another week or 10 days before any further vaccine is released at all.

Saw Early Flow

Four weeks ago today, in announcing the new safety standards on May 27, Surgeon Gen. Leonard A. Scheele of the Public Health Service told reporters he was "very optimistic" vaccine would be flowing from the manufacturers "very shortly."

He also said then, "It appears quite certain that some vaccine will be cleared next week, and that there will be progressive releases thereafter."

However, the only release of new vaccine since that date was on June 6, for about one million shots made by Eli Lilly Co., Indianapolis. On June 1 some 200,000 shots unused from lots previously cleared, were released. This vaccine was made by Wyeth Laboratories, Marietta, Pa., and Pittman-Moore Co., Zionsville, Ind.

There have been no other releases since May 27.

Vaccine Safe

Yesterday Scheele reaffirmed the official position of the Public Health Service that the vaccine "is effective and is safe" and again endorsed its manufacture and use.

All current production is going to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for free shots for second and first-grade school children. In New York, a Foundation spokesman said roughly six million more cubic centimeters (each cc. makes one shot) would be needed to complete inoculations for the first and second graders who want them.

Dr. Hart Van Riper, medical director of the Foundation, said first shots already have been made available to all children included in the program, but that most of the second or "booster" shots have not been given.

Party-Line 'Hogs' Banned By New Law

HARRISBURG, June 24 (AP)—Gov. Leader today signed into law a bill aimed at "party line hogs" who refused to surrender their telephone connection for emergency calls.

Under the law a $50 fine will be imposed for the first offense committed by any person "who fully refuses to immediately relinquish a party line when informed that the line is needed for an emergency call."

The emergency classification would be applied in cases where it is necessary to call fire or police departments or for medical aid or ambulance service.

Fine For Falsehood

A person falsely stating that the line is needed for such an emergency call also would be subject to a similar fine.

In either case, subsequent offenses could result in a maximum penalty of a $300 fine and 30 days in jail.

Effective next Jan. 1, the new law stipulates that telephone companies in Pennsylvania shall include in their directories a warning note dealing with "party line hogs."

House Group Okays Debt Extension

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee voted today to keep the national debt limit up at $281 billion dollars for another year at the request of the Eisenhower administration.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey promised to try to get the government back under the old statutory limit of 275 billion by June 30, 1956, but meanwhile, he told the legislators, he needs some financial "elbow room."

This can be provided by a 12-month extension of the higher debt ceiling of 281 billion, he said. The ceiling was raised from 275 temporarily last year but will fall back to that figure at the end of the month unless Congress grants an extension.

Members of the Ways and Means Committee reported they approved the administration's request at a brief closed session held after Humphrey had presented his case. They said there were no dissents.

If the Treasury manages to return to the 275 billion limit by the end of the 1956 fiscal year on June 30, 1956 it probably will have succeeded in making a sharp cut in the 2½ - billion - dollar deficit predicted by President Eisenhower. In fact there is some speculation that by pulling a few financial strings, it might put itself in a position to announce a balanced budget before the 1956 elections.

Sunday School Lesson

Scripture—Zephaniah 3
By Newman Campbell

THE PROPHET Zephaniah was a young man in the time of Judah's worst period of corruption, before the reign of good king Josiah. His book is short, only three chapters, but it is very forceful. He did not mince words with his erring people, but in the most graphic language described to them what the outcome of their sinning would be, for he felt that the Lord was very angry with His people, and not only with them, but with all nations.

"Read his words: 'Woe to her that is filthy and polluted, to the oppressing city—Jerusalem.'

"She obeyed not the voice; she received not correction; she trusted not in the Lord; she drew not near to her God."

"Her princes within her are roaring lions; her judges are evening wolves; they gnaw not the bones till the morning."

"Her prophets are light and treacherous persons; her priests have defiled the sanctuary, they have done violence to the law."

"The just Lord is in the midst thereof; He will not do iniquity; every morning doth He bring His judgment to light. He faileth not, but the unjust knoweth no shame."

All nations should be cut off, said Zephaniah, the Lord's prophet; their streets would be made waste and desolate. The cities would be destroyed.

After all the earth was "devoured with fire of my jealousy," however, Zephaniah declared that "then will I turn to the people a pure language, that they may call upon the name of the Lord, to serve him with one consent."

"In that day shall thou not be ashamed for all they doings, wherein thou hast transgressed against Me; for then I will take out of the midst of thee them that rejoice in thy pride; and thou shalt no more be naughty because of My holy mountains."

"I will also leave the midst of thee an afflicted and poor people, and they shall trust in the name of the Lord."

"The remnant of Israel shall not do iniquity, nor speak lies; neither shall a deceitful tongue be found in their mouth; for they shall lie down, and none shall make them afraid."

MALCOLM ALLEN (right), manager of the refreshment department for the June 22-26 assembly of 40,000 Jehovah's Witnesses in Chicago, tells C. R. Dunn the number of volunteers needed to make his department function properly. Miss Nell Gorra takes notes.

The circus brings excitement for young and old alike—the animals, the thrilling acts, the funny clowns. Perhaps we like the clowns best of all with their antics and their grinning faces.

But the jolly face of a clown is not necessarily what it seems to be. A mask of humor might very well conceal a sad heart, and the jester could easily be living in a world of self-doubt.

Many people know this dilemma. To the world they show a countenance of false gaiety, but within there is disquiet. Why? It may be that these people have found no basis for genuine peace and contentment. And no amount of banter or pretense can heal a bruised spirit.

A basic faith is essential to the soul of every individual. To attain this faith turn to the Church, which for countless generations has given new life and hope to millions. Then, with a heart full of love and confidence, know the joy of genuine, heartfelt laughter.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

World War II "This Trip Necessary?" Could Be Asked Of Many Officials Now

"Is this trip necessary?" Thus asked Government posters during World War II. The query was directed to the consciences, if any, of us on the home front. Railroads were groaning with weight of vital war traffic.

We've asked the same question in recent years. Diplomats travel hither and yon over the globe for on-the-spot consultations. Representatives of Government agencies and bureaus are here today and gone tomorrow, luxury-lining to some remote port, or mayhap flying. There's nothing like a face-to-face talk to the field representatives of a government agency diffusing culture and enlightenment, or some other intangible commodity, among the benighted.

But we're wrong, as usual, in suspecting some of the trips aren't necessary. It has been revealed before the House Ways and Means Committee one official returned from foreign posts with 50 cases of liquor, bought for a song and dance and brought in duty-free.

There were other examples of such necessities trips.

This Is No Time For "Political Timidity" In Dealing With Nation's Armed Reserves

The House Armed Services Committee is playing fast and loose with the future safety of this country by its adamant refusal to approve plans for the buildup of this nation's armed reserves.

President Eisenhower has called the military reserve program vital and has called on the public to lend him support. We believe the President does have that support, and we believe that it is a blunder of major proportions for Congress to persist in ignoring the need for an adequate military organization.

The West is sitting down at the conference table soon with the Communists, and we must go to the Summit strong. It was only because of our strength that there is to be a Summit meeting at all. Our strength, and our determination to use it if necessary, has forced the Communists to substitute sweet talk for new Korea and Indochina.

Congress was eager enough to pare down our standing Army, as the President proposed. But it refuses to enact the corollary, which would set up a large reserve system.

It apparently does not realize, or refuses to face up to the fact, that one is useless without the other. Worse still, cutting down the standing Army without augmenting the reserve is downright dangerous. We would have weakened ourselves on one front without compensating on the other.

The President is placed in a position of having to share some of the responsibility for this error, if it is committed. He proposed the plan, in all good faith, and then left it to its own devices in the political arena. The President's reluctance to interfere with the legislative process is understandable and commendable, of course.

A year ago the President assailed "political timidity" for blocking a realistic military bill. Only hope now for anything approaching a realistic military system rests in his own political strength.

It is no time for "political timidity," either from him or from those to whom he has passed the responsibility.

George Sokolsky Says...

Absurd To Suggest American Can Travel Anywhere He Pleases, Then Call For Help

In a letter to "The New York Times," Dr. Otto Nathan, who quarrelled with the State Department over his passport and got it through the courts, states categorically: "... The right of a citizen to travel cannot be restricted." In this letter, Dr. Nathan reduces the passport functions of the State Department to a mere registry. He says:

"My legal advisers argued that the State Department only has discretion in purely administrative matters such as the size of the passport photo, but does not enjoy any discretion in substantive matters and that it is unconstitutional to apply political standards to passport applications, as the State Department does..."

If this is correct, Congress should clearly define the nature of a passport, who is entitled to it, to whom it is to be issued, and by what method a passport may be lifted if its possessor becomes a problem to this country.

The passport is a statement by the United States that the bearer is a citizen in good standing, that American officials abroad are required to protect him by whatever means they possess, that in the event of war or revolution, the American Government will employ such methods as it may devise to safeguard him.

In 1918, because I have an American passport, I was put on a train at Petrograd with other Americans and permitted to leave Russia. Between 1919-1931, I lived in China under extra-territoriality, protected from bandits and other marauders who were then extant in that country. In 1939, during the Students Movement, I was called to the American Consulate in Shanghai and notified that my passport might be revoked if I actively partook in a revolution against the recognized government of China. In 1939, a group of Koreans wanted me to go to Paris to represent them at the peace conference. I could not get permission at the time. In 1923, in Tokyo, during the frightful earthquake, my wife and I were rescued by the American Government after we had slept on the street for five nights. The State Department, Army and Navy cooperated in looking after Americans in distress. Some had inadequate funds and they were aided.

It is absurd to suggest that an American is free to go where he pleases in a disturbed world and to do whatever he pleases and then to have the privilege of calling upon the American Government for aid if he gets into trouble.

Dr. Otto Nathan is a refugee who has prospered here. In the United States, he has taught economics and has lectured before organizations. In the judgment of the State Department, it is not to the best interests of the United States that he should travel in Europe. They say that they have satisfactory data to uphold their view but this data they cannot make public.

They may be altogether wrong about Dr. Nathan or anybody else. But someone has to decide to whom a passport should be given and from whom it should be withheld. Such a decision is the right of any country. The agency constituted to make such a decision ought to have its right from specific laws. Dr. Nathan's lawyers say that there are no such laws, except the McCarran Internal Security Act, the constitutionality of which is being challenged. If these laws are correct, Congress ought to pass a law forthwith.

There seems to be a blind area in our laws in which administrative judgment, rather than the Acts of Congress prevails. In Great Britain such areas are regarded as essential to the correct functioning of government. For instance, they do not have a single law on their statute books concerning the vast process of banking. That area is left to the judgment of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and even more to the Governor of the Bank of England. This method works very well.

Perhaps it is a matter of temperament, we needing laws to keep us in restraint. Franklin D. Roosevelt employed the device of the Executive Order probably more, and more effectively, than any predecessor; for this he was criticized by his opponents. It is clear, however, that it is practically impossible to run to Congress for a law covering each peccadillo detail of administration. In these days of complex living, such a process would end in paralysis of both Congress and the Administration.

To The Editor: Well another Memorial Day has passed, the day that flowers and plants and other nice things are placed on the graves of our beloved ones. But it is discouraging when you go to the cemetery a few days after Memorial Day and find that someone has taken your plants from the graves. I sure do think it's pretty small of someone to take flowers from the graves of loved ones. After all the flowers were put there in memory of our loved ones. I know this was done because a metal box filled with flowers was put on my relatives grave and there were only 2 flowers left in the box when we went down to water it. We sure felt bad to think people would be so low as to steal flowers from a grave.

Congress Won't Raise Postal Rates in 1956

Washington—You can safely bet that Congress won't raise postal rates either this year or next despite the administration's insistence that the post office department must increase its revenues. The administration proposal to hike the three-cent, first-class letter rate to four cents and the six-cent air mail postage to seven cents is just as dead as last year when Congress rejected it.

No action on a rate increase is scheduled for this session. And, with the elections coming up in 1956, there is no chance of action then either. Such a move is regarded as political suicide in an election year.

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield, who seeks higher rates to cover the postal service's annual operating loss, made a new plug for them when Eisenhower signed the postal pay bill.

Summerfield said that the $166 million annual cost of the 8.1 per cent pay raise made it more imperative than ever that the Post Office increase its revenues. However, this appeal fell on deaf ears in Congress. Legislators say that any boost in postal rates is still a long, long way off.

Scientific Demands—Officials are becoming increasingly alarmed over the government's difficulty in trying to recruit physicists, engineers, chemists and other scientific personnel into federal service.

Although these jobs pay well, they are not being filled rapidly because the apparent fear by some scientists that they will be gagged by government security regulations. They supposedly fear being barred from discussing topics necessary to permit the exchange of ideas in their fields.

A recent case in point are the eight out of 10 scientists who ducked out of a panel discussion on radioactivity because security prevented them from talking about something they were not sure was classified or not.

Operation Alert—The government's latest "Operation Alert" test of civil defenses is being heavily criticized as "worthless."

Critics point out that little was learned from the practice dispersal which the public is not already aware of. They see the major civil defense need as less apathy and more interest, arguing that make-believe "games" will only soothe public fears about the real danger.

However, even these cries have helped alert the nation to a subject which will get greater airing in coming months.

Vaccine Problem—Don't think that the troubles of the Salk polio vaccine program are just about over. Government health officials frankly are fearful that there may be many more snarls in the months to come.

They realize that the number of polio cases will continue to mount as the peak of the polio season approaches and that by mid-summer, many hundreds of vaccinated children may contract the disease.

Government officials say this won't be because of any imperfections or faults in the vaccine—at least they hope not. What they want the public to realize is that the Salk shots do not provide complete immunity against polio.

The truth is that the vaccine won't "take" for a number of children, and immunity is not complete until a youngster has had all three shots required in the inoculation process.

Rep. Miller Democrat, Gets Special Treatment From Ike

Pet Democrat—Being the only Democrat in President Eisenhower's party when he flew to San Francisco for the United Nations anniversary, paid off big for Representative George Miller.

The popular, hard-working Californian was singled out for royal treatment.

The President invited all Representatives from the Golden Gate Bay area to accompany him on the trip. Four legislators accepted; three Republicans and Democrat Miller. After the Columbine was airborne in Washington, the President welcomed his guests.

"I hope you won't be embarrassed by being surrounded by all us Republicans," he greeted Miller.

"Oh, no," replied Miller. "I'll just pull my hat over my face when we arrive on the West Coast, so no one will recognize me."

The President chuckled appreciatively, and during the flight chatted with Miller several times. On arrival, the President again singled him out for special note. In shaking hands with Governor Goodwin Knight, the President pointed to Miller and said, "I have a good Democrat with me."

Foreign Aid Administrator Harold Stassen piped up, "Just what makes a good Democrat?"

"One who can be persuaded," smiled the President.

"You may have something there, Mr. President," said Miller. "Of late, I've been getting sort of suspicious of myself. I saw an analysis which recorded me as voting 74 percent in support of your bills and various proposals. Looking this report over further, it showed that I've got a much better record than a lot of Republicans, including most of my colleagues here."

The President roared as two of the Republicans gulped in embarrassment at Miller's thrust.

Note: Nelson Rockefeller, White House assistant, told $8.00 in a ten-cent limit poker game during the trip.

Social Whirl—Washington's spring crop of debutants and other young belles had a field day this week with more than 400 West Point cadets in town for a tour of sightseeing and round of parties. Prominent hosts and hostesses outdid themselves to entertain the future officers. . . . The Norwegian embassy's First Secretary Mangor and his wife gave a small dinner party at which the following was served: Norway's famous aquavit, ice-cold bowls of fresh Beluga caviar, a light gumbo, breast of duck under a sauce of Montmorency (black cherries in wine), tiny fruit fritters with a 1947 Chateau d'Estourenay, a rich red wine, a salad of baby lettuce and slices of foie gras in aspic, 1943 Moet & Chandon Brut champagne, and Bonbe Alma (ground of French vanilla ice cream filled with pineapple sherbet and topped with whipped cream) for dessert. And last but not most exciting of all—

Representative Omar Burleson (D., Tex.) asked about reports that India is refusing to sell strategic materials to the U. S. "Quite the contrary," declared Allen. "We are getting large quantities of strategic materials from India. More than that, no strategic materials are going from India to Communist countries. Forty-one percent of all our manganese imports last year came from India, 67 percent of our mica imports, and 95 percent of our jute came from India."

Army Seeks Graduate Scientists

—by H. G. Heller

Another demonstration of the competitive race for the talents of young scientists of many fields who were graduated in this year's college commencement is found in a recent announcement by the Regular Army on granting of commissions.

In their effort to top this brand new reservoir of scientific training, the U. S. Army's top officials are now offering direct commissions in the Regular Army to college students with a Master or Doctor's degree.

Industry many months ago tapped the shoulders of many a young graduate-to-be, and took him on the basis of his scholastic record the minute he graduated.

With the increasing dependence of the Army on technical knowledge and the tremendous growth of the technical services in the past few years, opportunities in the Chemical, Ordnance, Quartermaster, Signal, Transportation and Engineer Corps are unlimited for qualified science specialists.

With the present academic year completed, the Second Army is contacting all colleges and universities in the seven-state Army area to inform them of the Technical Specialists program for science graduates who have completed their Master or Doctor's degree.

College graduates with a Bachelor of Science degree interested in the Army career program can apply for a waiver of the requirement for a higher degree, providing they have at least three years practical civilian experience in an appropriate scientific field.

The only additional qualifications required by the Army are that the applicant be between 21 and 27 years of age and can pass the Army medical examination.

All those who are commissioned directly as technical specialists will be appointed the rank of second lieutenant. However, if a man has previous service as a commissioned officer in the Army, he will be given credit for this service and may be appointed a higher rank.

As technical specialists, these officers will be involved in the most advanced scientific projects and, at the same time, will be making a vital contribution to the nation's security. The many new and complex weapons and equipment which have developed since World War II offer only a hint of what Army research and development programs will present in the future.

On Broadway

The Broadway Battlefield Lights and music mingle with the shadows and thunder in the realm of greasepaint. . . . Those who scale the summit or plunge in the darkness are engaged in a constant struggle. . . . The struggle is personal, emotional or artistic. . . . Frequently it is represented by a performer defying rebukes—or shows such as "Ankles Aweigh" and "Seventh Heaven" challenging critics. . . . It might be the headline-worn career versus romance conflict such as Debbie and Eddie. . . . And there are times when the enemy is the audience. . . . Ethel Barrymore has accurately reported: "It doesn't take a great demonstration of sound to convey to an actor's mind that he is a success or a failure. There is no sound so terrible to an actor as silence." . . . Then there's the courage of the lone backer of the new revue, "Almost Crazy" (an Oklahoma-liaison), who invested $75,000 in it and put up another 40 after the notes.

The creative artist's imagination is never a non-combatant. It is constantly battling for the unattainable—perfection. The struggle has been personified by Paul Muni. . . . His intense preoccupation with mastering a role and his profound desire to gain the ultimate—has made Muni his own severest critic. Moreover, it has made success secondary to perfection and nullified the satisfaction of fame. . . . Following his triumph in "Inherit the Wind," Muni confessed to an interviewer: "I haven't had quite the pleasure, quite the loot from success that others get. Many things I find difficult to explain to myself. I never wanted to be a star. I am still happier in the audience than on the stage."

Although first-nights are social events for audiences they are battlegrounds involving actors, producers, playwrights and critics. Careers can be sustained or demolished. The aspirations of a lifetime slaughtered within several hours. The crueler aspects of premieres—almost on a par with total war—have been analyzed by playwright S. N. Behrman: "I stay home on opening nights."

Railroad Ready To Seek Truce With Ezra Stone

NEWARK, N. J., (AP)—The biggest railroad in the country today appeared ready to call it quits in its squabble with commuter Ezra Stone but the former Henry Aldrich of radio fame wants time to consider the peace move.

The Pennsylvania Railroad had Stone and his wife arrested a week ago after he informed a conductor he wouldn't permit his ticket to be punched for 45 minutes since the train was that late.

Stone was to appear before acting Chief Magistrate Joseph B. Sugrue on a charge of creating a disturbance as a result. But he didn't show up.

His lawyer, Martin D. Moroney of Newark, appeared instead and asked that the hearing be put off until the week of Aug. 1.

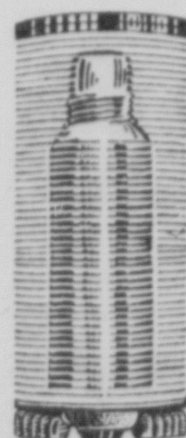

Moroney told the judge he met with railroad officials yesterday and said the road wants "to forget the whole unfortunate incident." No one appeared for the railroad.

But Stone, the lawyer said, still wants to "consider" the matter because, he told reporters: "Mr. Stone is very much concerned with the problems of commuters."

Stone, 37-year-old radio and television director-producer, lives in Newtown, Pa. He was on his way home from New York when the incident took place.

PITTSBURGH, June 24 (AP)—The New York State Natural Gas Corp. has estimated damages at between $75,000 and $100,000 in last week's explosion of a well at Renovo, Pa., a company spokesman said today.

The well cap blew off June 15 and the open flow of gas exploded the next day. The well was capped June 21 by Paul (Red) Adair, a Houston, Tex., oil and gas well trouble-shooter, and a team of 16 other men.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—Remington Rand, Inc., claims to have perfected a computer's computer—a device that will make it possible for almost anyone with a brain to operate the room-size electronic brain made by the company.

The device is an electronic dictionary, which, fed certain information, makes the computer instruct itself. With it, a problem can be prepared for the big computer in a matter of minutes instead of months.

Additionally, the device will widen the horizon for uses of the giant computers. It will be easier to find people to operate them.

Heart Clinic To Be Held At College

LECTURES, films and reports covering all phases of heart disease and treatment of cardio-vascular patients will be heard in a day-long "heart symposium" opening at 9:30 this morning at State Teachers College men's dormitory.

Sponsored cooperatively by the Monroe County Heart Committee and the Monroe County Registered Nurses Association, the conference is designed to present the latest information on treatment for cardiac patients.

Those attending will be registered nurses and trained nurses aides from all over Northeastern Pennsylvania, with particular stress on the Monroe County region where all nurses have been urged to attend.

State President Here

Among the chief speakers will be Dr. Joseph B. Cady, president of the Pennsylvania Heart Association; Dr. Mary Richardson, chief of the rheumatic fever division of the Pennsylvania State Department of Health and Dr. Robert P. Glover, director of the cardiovascular research laboratories at Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Vesta Sloat, supervisor at Monroe County General Hospital, will discuss "Nursing techniques and procedures in the care of cardiac patients."

The meeting is slated to begin at 9:30 a.m. with registration followed by an official welcome from the Heart Committee by Dr. C. H. Rushmore. Two films will be shown during the day.

Today's conference is the largest ever scheduled on heart disease for this area. No charge is made for any part of the actual symposium. Lunch will be served at the General Hospital. The charge for this will be one dollar.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield Plans Conducting Special Campaign

THE SPECIAL CAMPAIGN for Blue Cross-Blue Shield enrollment in Monroe County due to end with this month has brought heavy response to the hospital plan.

Officials yesterday released the answers to a number of questions most frequently asked by those about to join the plan and many who are already in it. They include:

Q. Is Blue Cross good outside Northeastern Pennsylvania? And what about other hospitals, besides the one I got the letter from? And what about Blue Shield?

A. Both give you protection no matter where you go, and once you're a member, you can keep your protection up until any age, whether you're employed, or not.

Q. Do my wife and children get the same Blue Cross benefits I get?

A. Yes, every person on the agreement gets the same benefits, even if every one should need every benefit listed (with the exception of maternity, which, of course, is for the wife member of the agreement if you select one that provides this service).

Q. Does Blue Cross-Blue Shield cancel a person, or limit benefit once services have been used?

A. Not Blue Cross-Blue Shield! You'll hear of this happening, but not in your hospital-doctor-backed non-profit plans! Days allowed for hospital care start at 21 first year, run up to 37 after fifth year. And every person on an agreement could use the entire number of days allowed during that year if it were necessary... even if you had 10 children, or any number!

Q. What does everybody mean when they keep saying Blue Cross

New Set Of Maps

NEW DELHI, June 24 (AP)—India quietly has put on sale a new set of maps replacing those quietly withdrawn from stores last year during a long-range ruckus with Red China over frontier areas. The new maps boldly define India's claims on some previously "undefined" areas shown as China on Chinese maps.

and Blue Shield are "non-profit?"

A. There are no stockholders to be paid dividends, every one works on salary, not commission; directors represent hospitals, doctors, community, and serve without fees. Right now, Hospital Service Ass'n of N. E. Pa.'s overhead is just 7 cents of a member's dollar... the other 93 cents are going for his present or anticipated hospital care!

Q. I really have several more questions... where can I get them answered?

A. Watch this paper for dates when Blue Cross-Blue Shield representatives will be at some central spot in your area. Or, write any time, members or non-members, to:

Subscribers' Service, Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Bennett Building, Wilkes-Barre. Other offices at Hazleton, Jersey Shore, Sayre, Scranton and Williamsport.

Playhouse At Bushkill Lists Card

FRANCIS MAYVILLE, director of the International Theatre in Pittsburgh, will direct some of the plays to be presented at the Bushkill Playhouse this season, including the opening attraction "A Streetcar Named Desire."

The selection of plays, all popular hits of recent years and wide in appeal, includes: "Arsenic and Old Lace," "Light Up the Sky," "Angel Street," "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "Kiss and Tell," "Born Yesterday," and "Night Must Fall."

George Robert Allen, who will be assistant producer for the season, will direct two of the productions: "Three Men on a Horse" and "Bell, Book, and Candle."

Resident Company

The resident company is made up of performers from both Pittsburgh and New York. Several apprentices, also from New York, will join the company in Bushkill. Interested actors from this area should watch the newspapers for an invitation to try out for some of the shows in which there are a large number of parts.

The first production "A Streetcar Named Desire" opens Tuesday night, June 28, and runs through Saturday night, July 2. Curtain time for all performances is 8:30 p. m.

Wheat Growers Vote Today On Federal Controls

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—Wheat growers, plagued by a vast and persistent surplus, will decide in a referendum tomorrow whether to continue federal controls that keep their plantings about 30 percent below war and postwar levels.

The referendum is regarded by farm leaders as the most important ever held by the Agriculture Department in more than 20 years of crop control operations.

The outcome is in doubt because of sharp opposition raised to the restrictions in some areas and because of general farmer dissatisfaction with present agricultural prices.

Approval by at least two-thirds of those voting will be required to continue acreage controls.

Rejection of the controls, some farm leaders say, might well weaken the whole farm price support structure unless Congress acted promptly to set up an alternative program.

Next Week's Attraction At Pocono Playhouse Stars Jane Pickens In Short Plays

MOUNTAINHOME—Rowena Stevens, producer-manager of Pocono Playhouse will present Jane Pickens in Noel Coward's "Tonight at 8:30" as her next attraction opening Monday, June 27.

In its original form, "Tonight at 8:30" was one of the successful productions which helped establish the late Gertrude Lawrence and Coward as a unique acting team.

Miss Pickens—one of three singing sisters—enrolled at Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia at the age of 13. She appeared as a soloist with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in Carnegie Hall and with the Philadelphia Symphony after continuing her musical studies at Juilliard Graduate School in New York.

She then made her legitimate

Lillian Hellman's "The Little Foxes".

Combination of Plays

"Tonight at 8:30" is a combination of three of Coward's short plays. Included are "Red Peppers", a comedy set on the stage of an old-time vaudeville house, "Hands Across the Sea", a light comedy about a much-traveled lady who invites chance acquaintances to visit her in her home, then forgets their names until they show up for a stay as guests and "Still Life", a story of a romance and the way it affects the life of a happily married woman.

Miss Pickens is starred in all three of the plays. She will be supported by Moultrie Patten, Viola Roache, Adria Rice, Charles Campbell, Arthur Anderson, Marjorie Eaton and Del Tenny. The play will be directed by John O'Shaughnessy. It runs through July 2 with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

New Octane Bonus Amoco-Gas

The present epidemic of octane claims is based on laboratory ratings. They are ratings obtained by adding lead. And lead doesn't all burn up. It leaves harmful deposits that can turn your engine into an octane trap—a trap that catches and wastes octane!

Then the octane performance in your car suffers. That's the difference between laboratory octane and usable road octane.

A great, new unleaded gas with an Octane BONUS

Out of the world's largest Ultraforming unit comes the clear answer to octane... a white, premium gas with such natural high-octane value that no lead is needed!

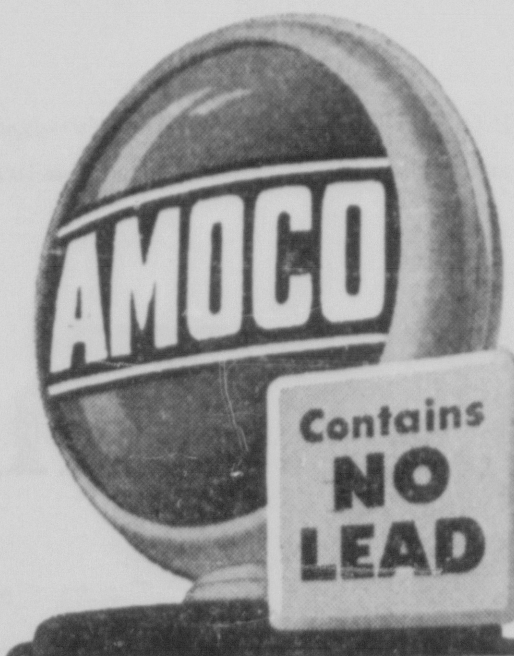

All the high-octane energy in the new Ultraformed Amoco-Gas is usable octane on the road where it counts. It can all burn... it can all go to the wheels. There's no octane waste due to lead deposits.

So you get a bonus in every gallon of the new Amoco-Gas—an Octane Bonus that multiplies itself into extra gas mileage. Try the new, Ultraformed Amoco-Gas—it's wonderful!

* Videotown is New Brunswick, New Jersey, a place of considerable historic background and a typical American community. It was chosen by the Cunningham and Walsh advertising agency as a laboratory for the study of the growth of television and its impact on American social habits.

The study, begun in 1948, shows that TV had been cutting deeply into normal daily routines, except for one — newspaper reading.

Videotown TV owners spend more time with newspapers each week than before TV.

Why does newspaper reading become ever more popular? Because newspaper reading is as natural as breathing — and, so far, nothing has come along to replace either one. Matter of fact, latest U. S. circulation figures show newspapers at an all-time high of 55,072,480, up 600,000 in one year.

Nothing comes close to newspapers as America's Number One advertising medium. Advertisers placed more money in newspapers last year than in television, radio, magazines and outdoor — combined!

Mildred Smith Is Bride Of D. A. Gordon

A candlelight ceremony marked the wedding of Donald Arthur Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Gordon, of 2252 North Fifth Street, Stroudsburg, and Miss Mildred Marie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Smith, of Swiftwater. The quiet, double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. William F. Wunder, pastor of Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, on Thursday night at 7:30. The altar was graced with bouquets of white snapdragons.

The bride wore a dress of white lace over shell pink taffeta and carried a white Bible surmounted by a white orchid intertwined with streamers, baby's breath and miniature white satin bows.

Mrs. Jean Trenholm, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a blue crepe dress with pink accessories and carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses.

Robert Hinton was best man. Immediately following the wedding a reception was held at Gap View Inn for the young couple. There was a three-tier wedding cake and bouquets of white snapdragons and yellow roses.

The bride's mother wore a navy and white dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a light blue dress and a corsage of yellow roses.

After their return from a wedding trip to Atlantic City, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon will make their temporary home with the bridegroom's parents until Fall when Mr. Gordon will enter National Agricultural College near Doylestown, where he will major in chemistry. The bride attended Pocono Township High School. Mr. Gordon was graduated with this year's class from East Stroudsburg High School and is employed at Line Material Co.

—By Bobby Westbrook

The last weekend in June is always an exciting one with June brides fluttering all over the place like so many white doves and this is no exception. I know of four weddings scheduled for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Strawberry festivals and church school picnics, weddings and relatives arriving for vacations. It's going to be a gala weekend. Now if the sun will just shine.

It was very obliging yesterday afternoon for the arrival of Miss Pennsylvania. After the noon-time thunderstorm which dampened down a clothesline full of wash—but good—for me, the late afternoon turned out to be just right.

Out came the families for Friday night in town—white shoes, organdy dresses, and even Davy Crockett in a white shirt, if you please.

The wild life thought it was a nice evening for a stroll, too. In his post-prandial walk down through the orchard, the man of the house saw three deer, two skunks, four rabbits and one box turtle, which is heavy traffic for us.

Mission Program Closes Year For Church Auxiliary

The Women's Auxiliary of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church held their final meeting for the season at Brainerd Presbyterian Center, Snyder'sville, on Wednesday.

Mrs. Horace G. Walters, president, presided over the short business session, when Circle projects were reported and Mrs. Milo Singer, assistant sec. of sewing, gave a complete report on all the sewing for the past year.

Mrs. Paul Dellaria, sec. for national missions and overseas hospital sewing, was introduced by the program chairman, Mrs. Elwood Grant.

Mrs. Dellaria gave a resume on the foreign mission program for Miraj, India. She presented the unique history of Miraj starting in a very primitive India 60 years ago when Dr. William J. Wanless pioneered in that part of India. Lacking in sufficient funds, equipment and modern medicine facilities, Dr. Wanless began his work in a rehabilitated donkey stable and from this unpromising start there grew the now famous Miraj Medical Center, a hospital of over 300 beds, the only Christian medical school for men in all India, a high grade school of nursing, a leprosy sanatorium, and a large tuberculosis sanatorium. Dr. Wanless became known as the Mayo of India. Another unique creation achieved by Dr. Wanless was the Wanless Tuberculosis Sanatorium, which was wholly established by money raised by wealthy Indian friends, grateful families and other well wishers.

Mrs. Dellaria read a letter from Mrs. E. H. Evans, sec. for medical supplies, which described the arrival of the local sewing supplies in metal drums and how they were distributed.

The sewing done for national missions was sent to Sage Memorial Hospital, Ganado, Arizona. Mrs. Dellaria told of its beginning in 1910 by Dr. J. D. Kennedy and it is now a 130-bed grade A hospital, nurses training school with about 45 pupil nurses. The first missionary work among the Navaho Indians was in 1901 and in 1927 Dr. Clarence G. Salisbury, a medical missionary, at home on furlough from China, was asked to take charge during an emergency period. He found such need and challenge that he remained to help build up the work of this mission hospital. She also spoke of all the improvements to this hospital and the mission work accomplished in this area.

The third and last mission project was the latest one, the Portsmouth Center, Virginia—a personal letter from Dr. Thomas Hargrave thanking the church for the sewing gifts, along with snap shots of the boys, girls and adults who attend this mission were passed for all to see.

Mrs. Dellaria closed her report with a prayer.

On display was a large map, designed by Mrs. Jesse Flory, on which all the foreign and national mission stations were marked by money representing the auxiliaries' gifts.

An appropriate outdoor service for devotions was presented under the leadership of Mrs. Russell Cramer. Her theme, "For The Beauty of the Earth," expressing the appreciation of outdoor beauty and creative work of our Lord, was given in a talk and prayer.

An acappella chorus of "For the Beauty of the Earth," was

Calendar Of Events

Saturday, June 25
SPCA Bake Sale — Wyckoff Dept. Store, 9 a. m.

Strawberry festival, Mount Zion Methodist Church, 6:30 p. m.
Heart Symposium sponsored by Monroe County Registered Nurses and Heart Committee, 9:30 a. m., at ESSTC.

Beakleyville Baptist Sunday School picnic, 1 p. m. Supper at 5 p. m. at Stroudsburg Playground.

Tuesday, June 28
Card party, sponsored by Anna Logan Society, for the General Hospital, at Camp Tamiment, at 2:30 p. m.

Just fifteen minutes before, Shorty Widmer and I had been discussing the recently published "Confessions of a Girl Cab Driver" now on sale in our Wyckoff book department. I had said I was reading a copy, and finding it most enjoyable. I'd asked Shorty if he knew it had been written by Edith Martz Clark, a native of Wind Gap, a former resident of Stroudsburg, and a resident, at the present time, of Havertown, Pa.

Now I was back in my office, and the telephone rang. It was Florence Predmore, head of our stationery department, with an urgent request to come to the main floor. "Mrs. Clark who wrote the girl cab driver story is here. I'd like you to talk with her."

So down the stairs I went once again (no wonder I needn't diet to retain my waistline!) and sure enough, there was Mrs. Clark autographing the stack of books which tell her fascinating wartime experiences answering calls of "Taxi - Taxi!"

Mrs. Clark is a woman of medium height and, I should judge, middle years, with hair far darker and a much younger appearance than her picture on the book's jacket would indicate. She was friendly, pleasant, and businesslike with no more self-eflation than a woman might feel after dishing up the breakfast cereal. It almost seemed that writing a book was, to her, as routine as cleaning my teeth would be to me. Yet this is her first and, according to her publisher, is going very well for being only six-months off the press.

Having observed the letters N. D. after her signature, I mentioned this and learned that Mrs. Clark is a Doctor of Naturopathy. I didn't know what this meant and still do not, since no dictionary is at hand right this minute—but I kept this lack of knowledge snugly under my bonnet, I hope. She is a former school teacher, too, educated at State Teachers College, East Stroudsburg, she served two years in the local schools, only to be forced into retirement from this profession by a serious back injury. Some years later she attempted it again, to find that the clamor of the classroom was rough on the nerves. Far more so, Mrs. Clark admits with some surprise, than driving a cab through Philadelphia during the hectic war times when transportation was at a minimum and people's dispositions not always too pleasant.

Our chat ended with a brief excursion onto Main Street where I pointed out the entrance of WVFO and received her promise that she will return from her home city on Friday of next week to relate her experiences on our Wyckoff Shopper broadcast. If, after that, you learn of my resignation from Wyckoff's, just look for me driving a cab. Every girl should be entitled to a few confessions once in a while!

Newfoundland Rallies To Gain Nod, 5-4

NEWFOUNDLAND—Bob Lupcho pitched and batted the Newfoundland Cubs to a 5-4 decision over the Paupack Chiefs in a Wayne County Junior League baseball game played here on Thursday night.

The Cubs now sport a record of one win and two setbacks. Lupcho limited the visiting Chiefs to two hits and then singled home Ron Osommer from second base with the deciding counter after two outs had been registered in the home half of the seventh and final round.

Deadlock

The Cubs were to score two times in the seventh to even the matter at 4-4.

Dick Urdel blasted a home run in the third inning for Newfoundland's first run and the Cubs tallied their second counter in the bottom of the fifth.

Paupack tallied all of its runs in the fifth inning, but it wasn't quite enough to turn the tide of battle.

Newfoundland did its damage on eight hits, two of which were credited to Lupcho. The Cubs also took advantage of two errors by the Chiefs to earn the victory.

Lupcho fanned 12 and walked five batters, while Dick Prigge struck out six and gave up only one free ticket to first base.

Box score follows:

Indians Release Gray

CLEVELAND, June 24 (AP)—Sore arm southpaw Ted Gray, who tried to make a comeback with the Cleveland Indians, didn't make it. He was released today to make room for Joe Altobelli.

Leading U.S. Doubles Team Advances

WIMBLEDON, England, June 24 (AP)—The pulled muscle in Vic Seixas' aching right shoulder pulled through its first easy test today as Seixas and Tony Trabert advanced to the third round of doubles play in the Wimbledon tennis tournament.

Top Seeded

After heat treatments, rubdowns and a 30-minute warmup out in one of the fringe courts in this sprawling tennis plant, Seixas unveiled the celebrated shoulder as he and Trabert walloped Tony Pickard and Bobby Wilson, a pair of young Britons, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1. The one-sided match was little more than a tuneup, as the No. 1 American player never hit a hard service and stroked his forehand shots at half speed with his shoulder tucked into his body.

Giants Reach New Era After Selling Irvin To Farm Club

ST. LOUIS, June 24 (AP)—Big Monte Irvin, one of the stars of the New York Giants' Cinderella pennant push of 1951, went back to the minors today in a shuffle which brought Wayne Terwilliger up from Minneapolis for infield insurance.

Terwilliger, whose experience has spanned both major leagues, was scheduled to join the Giants tonight against the St. Louis Cardinals as a second base replacement for the ailing Davey Williams.

Sold Outright

Irvin, sold outright to the Millers, also went directly to his new assignment which he hoped would serve as a springboard back to the majors.

The makers of Super-Refined No-Nox, the clean-burning gasoline, now bring you a new super-refined motor oil...

New Gulfpride H.D. Select

Available in 3 grades—SAE 10W, SAE 20/20W, SAE 30. Lets you follow your car manufacturer's recommendation for each season.

...the only motor oil in the world
super-refined by the Alchlor Process for modern high-compression engines.

Not a compromise, multi-viscosity oil that tries to be an "all-season," "three-grades-in-one" oil. Contains no artificial thickeners that break down in your engine and increase oil consumption.

This completely new kind of motor oil—made possible by Gulf's exclusive Alchlor Process—is available in 3 grades to give you the finest protection, the best oil mileage for your make of car—in every season.

- Controls carbon—cause of knock, pre-ignition, valve failure and loss of power in high-compression engines.
- Combats corrosive acids, rust and deposits that build up on engine parts. Keeps hydraulic valve lifters quiet and free-acting.
- Assures lower oil consumption than the multi-viscosity "all-season" motor oils, because it has natural viscosity and contains no artificial thickeners that break down in your engine.
- Provides the toughest protective film ever developed in a motor oil... assures better engine protection for all cars under all driving conditions.

"Coked" valve "A" is from engine using a so-called "all-season," multi-grade oil. Coke-like carbon deposit is a cause of sluggish performance and ultimate valve failure. Clean valve "B" is from engine using new Gulfpride.

See how Gulfpride H.D. Select holds its "body" (viscosity). This new oil contains no artificial thickeners that break down under heat and pressure. But note how quickly a typical multi-viscosity 10W-30 oil starts to lose its body.

Now! For the ultimate in working octane performance and engine protection, always use Gulf's super-refined gas-oil team...
